

Leadership Development: Effective Team Building

- What do all staff want from their leader?
- How do you build capacity in your staff team?
- What is an effective way to delegate and still get the job done?
- How can you manage all your priorities and still have a life?
- Where does future planning fit into your daily schedule?
- How much space do you give to administration on a daily basis?
- How do you deal with the staff who take up most of your time?
- Why do we forget so quickly what we have to do?

This workshop focuses on recent research, academic literature, examples of best practice and the experience of a number of school leaders.

This is what previous participants on Simon's courses have said:

"A very useful day. Lots of excellent and practical ideas"

"The best course I have been on for a long time"

"Excellent – so many ideas to take back to the classroom"

"Brilliant – both enjoyable and informative."

Simon Green is an education consultant. He works with a number of schools, colleges and universities in an advisory capacity.

Simon Green BA MEd FCIL

Simon has a national reputation with many years experience in teacher training and delivering in-school consultancies as well as courses and conferences.

Course fee: full day's training in-house £600 (plus travel costs)